

SUBSCRIBE NOW FOR TWO DAY PRE-SALE FOR NYE TICKETS AT BARANGAROO RESERVE

Sydney's newest New Year's Eve vantage point, Barangaroo Reserve, will again host one of the city's best options to ring in 2018, with tickets on sale this week.

Tickets to New Year's Eve at Barangaroo Reserve are expected to sell out in weeks. To beat the rush, an exclusive two day pre-sale for Barangaroo enews subscribers goes on sale today, Tuesday, 3 October, at 12pm.

To access this exclusive pre-sale offer, the public must subscribe to the Barangaroo enews. All remaining tickets will go on general sale to the public at midday on Thursday, 5 October.

This year, Barangaroo has teamed up with Together with Solotel, the award-winning catering arm of Bruce Solomon and Matt Moran's Solotel group, to provide an exquisite New Year's Eve menu to suit every taste and budget. Offerings range from: North Bondi Fish – serving freshly shucked oysters to fish and chips; Chiswick – serving their famous slow roast lamb shoulder; The Erko – burgers, ribs and wings straight from the smokehouse or Goros, serving Yakitori and other delicious morsels.

New Year's Eve at Barangaroo Reserve is one of the best value options in the city with tickets starting at just $40 per person for adults and $5 per child.

Hosting its third New Year's Eve, Barangaroo Reserve has quickly gained a reputation as a family-friendly location with tickets selling out in six weeks in 2016.

Providing stunning views of the Sydney Harbour Bridge, Barangaroo Reserve is the easiest of all the harbourside venues to access via public transport to enjoy the globally-recognised and internationally acclaimed spectacular fireworks in Sydney.

Barangaroo Delivery Authority, Executive Director, Activation and Precinct Management, Sandra Bender, said: "Sydney proves again and again why its New Year celebrations are world famous. Barangaroo Reserve provides an excellent vantage point with a spectacular backdrop to the Harbour Bridge.

"Our vision is to make Barangaroo a wonderful place for all people. Limiting the numbers to 10,000 helps maximise the comfort and safety of the public while welcoming in 2018."

Gates open

The gates on Hickson Road will open at 6pm and there will be roving and staged entertainment throughout the park before and after the 9pm fireworks.

The car park under Barangaroo Reserve will not be open on the night. An accessible viewing area is available on the night; however, bookings are essential. Bookings to be made via nye@barangaroo.nsw.gov.au.
